KAISER'S ARMY OCCUPIES

EFFORT TO OCCUPY
PARIS.

NOTHING IS DECIDED

Allied Armies Make Determined Resistance in Crucial Engagement of War in the West—
Russians Capture Lemberg.

The absence of official announcement from the capitals of the belligerents today is the surest indication that the fighting in the east and west continues without decisive results.

Such news dispatches as escaped the censor tend to confirm earlier official claims and admission. The Germans are pushing their right wing nearer Paris, while their center and left appear to be held by the French. Russia is pressing forward in the Austrian province of Galicia after having taken the strongly fortified capital, Lemberg. The Germans are admittedly victorious in Prussia.

The Japanese are said to have occupied seven islands near Kiao Chow and to have landed additional troops within marching distance of that German stronghold in the face of protest by China.

King Nicholas of Montenegro, is reported as determined to occupy Scutari.

The governor and other German officials of Samoa have been made prisoners by the British and sent to the Fiji islands.

The government of France is now established at Bordeaux. The foreign embassies and legations, with the exception of those of the United States and Switzerland, have also removed from Paris to Bordeaux.

The Austrian army in Galicia was acting in close cooperation with two German army corps facing Breslau and seeming to envelope the Russian forces in Poland.

Their plans, however, met with a series of disasters ending in a complete rout when an attempt was made to pierce the Russian center.

In the left the line now held by the left flank of the allied armies in the valley of the Oise runs diagonally from a point northeast of Paris to Compiègne and thence to siege of Paris is still in progress, according to the latest official announcement here.

Future military historians will write volumes about the details of this battle, but all the British public knows officially concerning the titanic struggle, the most momentous British soldiers have fought since Waterloo, is contained in one sentence of an official report issued last night by the press bureau.

Continuous fighting has been in progress along almost the whole line of battle.

To this generally the French official communication adds to the fact that the allied forces have fallen back toward the southwest to avoid an action which might have been engaged under unfavorable conditions.

Censorship Strict.

There can be no revelation of military secrets, nothing which a patriotic censorship could criticize in stating these facts because the German army, which is engaging the allied forces, is precisely where their first line is drawn, and the purpose of the censorship is only to suppress facts which might enlighten the enemy.

A brief official bulletin of last night is the first word the British people have received from their government concerning the present battle. The last previous bulletin was Field Marshal Kitchener's statement issued Sunday night, throwing a light on the previous four days' battle which ended Saturday and which indicated the greatest credit on the generalship and discipline of the British army.

The Chronicle's correspondent at the front writing from an unnamed town in the department of Somme, Tuesday, says:

"The superiority of the British artillery coupled with the pick of the British infantry is rapidly destroying the German attackers. A few more days such as Sunday and Monday, and the German army invading Belgium will have destroyed itself completely."

"No army that ever existed could endure and survive the terrible losses sustained by the Germans in the last few days."

Whole divisions of infantry have been blotted out and shattered and the German ranks are beginning to show demoralization.

"In the latest assault the Germans manifested unmistakable signs of unsteadiness, and were seen to waver and frequently to break and flee in confusion."

"The German line has been broken and the German army has advanced a few miles but has not gained any marked advantage."

DENY REPORT THAT CARDINAL IS HURT

WAR'S FIRST HERO

a year earlier than the late Pope, but at eighty he is still young in years, in comparison with a number of his colleagues. In reality, however, he has aged greatly since 1903, when he was elected as successor of Pope Leo XIII. Today he is almost blind, deaf, and in such a low state of health generally that he has been less seriously discussed at the present time.

Cardinal Vannuttelli family is the only one which has two members in the Sacred College. Vincent Vannuttelli, brother of the dean, is quite as prominent. Under Pius X he held the post of secretary of the Holy See, a position which is the "court of last appeal" in all questions relating to marriage under the Catholic laws. He is now 71 years old, and doubtless is well remembered in the United States, where he was greeted by thousands of Catholics in many cities during his tour of that country in 1910. On this tour he delivered an address at the consecration of St. Patrick's cathedral in New York.

Cardinal Martinielli is even better known in the United States, where he was Papal delegate from 1896-1903, previous to the service of Cardinal Falconio at Washington. He is a learned and able ecclesiastic, and was prefect of the Congregation of Rites under Pius X.

Cardinal Agliardi, the sub-dean of the Sacred College, is the oldest among those who have been mentioned as possibilities. He is a most influential man, so that consideration of his name could not be taken seriously without involving the danger of short Pontificate.

Cardinal Gotthard, who is also a younger man than the late Pope, was one of those prominently mentioned as successor to Leo XIII. when it was urged both for him and against him that he was a strict conservative.

CARDINAL CREATED LAST MAY ELECTED TO SUCCEED PIUS X

ARCHBISHOP OF BOLOGNA NAMED AS NEW PONTIFF OF ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Will Be Benedict XV.

Newly Elected Pope is a Young Man Not Yet Sixty Years of Age—Former Secretary of Cardinal Rampolla.

Rome, Sept. 3.—Cardinal Della Chiesa has been elected pope in succession to Pius X. The new pope will assume the name of Benedict XV.

Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, who today was elected pope by the sacred college in succession to Pius X, who died August 20, was created a cardinal May 25, 1914. He is the archbishop of Bologna.

He was born at Pegli, in the diocese of Genoa, November 9, 1854, and was ordained a priest December 21, 1878. He served as secretary of the Nonultra in Spain from '83 to '87, in which year he was appointed secretary to the late Cardinal Rampolla.

He was appointed substitute secretary of the state in 1901 and in 1907 he was elevated to the post of advisor to the holy office.

Opponent of "Modernism."

In 1907 he was appointed papal nuncio of Madrid but that appointment only lasted three days. This incident had occurred just before he was made archbishop of Bologna. When Monsignor Della Chiesa was given this post, it was declared in Rome that it was mainly with the object of combating modern religious ideas, Bologna being the headquarters of the national democratic movement, which members advocated what is known as "modernism."

In January 1914 while still at Bologna the present pope issued a pastoral letter, strongly condemning the "modernism."

It has been 175 years since the time of the last Pope Benedict.

The conclave of the Sacred College which today is to elect the Pope, went into session the evening of Monday, Aug. 31. The announcement of the outcome of its deliberations was made this morning at 11:20 o'clock.

Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and Cardinal O'Connor of Boston are on the steamer Kenope, which is expected at Naples until tomorrow. They were on their way to attend the conclave.

The choice of Pope falls on a Cardinal of Italian birth, as was expected from tradition, and also from the fact that the majority of the Sacred College is of Italian birth, which has mitigated against the selection of Pope outside of the Italian hierarchy.

The new Pope has been in the priesthood since he was 24 years of age. For seven years after being appointed he administered the diocese of Bologna with notable success, until in 1904 Pope Pius X named him among the thirteen members of the hierarchy to receive the red hat.

The full title to the Pope in addition to Benedict XV will be Pope, Bishop of Rome and Successor of St. Peter's, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, Sovereign of the Temporal Dominion of the Holy Roman Church.

That the successor to Pope Pius X would be an Italian has been regarded as almost a certainty, for the state of affairs throughout Europe during the past few years has been more than ever that the church should not depart from its traditions. But there was from the American side a possibility that the tradition might still be maintained, and that some candidate of American birth might be elevated to St. Peter's throne. This would be in the case of the election of Diomedes Falconio, Italian by birth, who was for many years a missionary in America and the Papal delegate to the United States, and who became a naturalized American citizen during his residence abroad.

Cardinal Falconio was, however, only a few years ago, and is not one of the Cardinals mentioned.

There was little doubt, if any, authorization for speculating on the chances of the many candidates. Following were some of the names that have been mentioned, with brief biographical data.

Cardinal Serafino Vannuttelli, the dean of the Sacred College, was born a year earlier than the late Pope, but at eighty he is still young in years, in comparison with a number of his colleagues. CIRCUS DAY CROWDS HERE FOR BIG SHOW

THOUSANDS IN JANESVILLE TODAY FOR RINGLING BROTHERS' BIG ENTERTAINMENT.

PARADE A BIG FEATURE

Beautiful Horses, Brilliantly Painted Wagons and Elaborately Costumed People Make Up Spectacle.

There were thousands of visitors in Janesville today for Ringling Brothers' world's greatest circus. From miles around the crowds came eager for that day of days, which is the joy of every youngster's heart, and a big pleasure event for grown-ups as well.

First there was the parade, oo-h-wah! a parade! Just miles of wagons with pictures of ancient warriors and dazzling females on the outside piquing the curiosity to the bursting point as to what was inside. There was a chariot for every nation with the national flags floating and folks dressed up like the natives of each are supposed to dress and sometimes Sheba," which is presented on a stage of five times the size of that found in the latest theaters. The Ringling circus is a perfect city in itself traveling every night, making a new city every day and moving with more system, rapidity and less fuss and noise than any branch of the army. To prepare for its coming exactly 100 representatives, each with a various mission to perform, have visited this city.

All of the cooking for this enormous enterprise is done by steam and in ranges built in a wagon weighing six tons and drawn by eight horses. As a mere detail of the marketing, the circus consumes 3,000 pounds of fresh beef, 300 dozen eggs, 300 pounds of bread, 150 pounds of butter, 150 pounds of coffee, 500 pounds of sugar and other items equally as large. The first order for the cookies and yet, as large a number as this may seem, it is only four a piece, for the stock and animal department there are used daily 10 tons of hay, five tons of straw, 300 bushels of oats, while no well behaved elephant would think of starting his days' labor without his morning cereal—a bale of hay. Most of these purchases are made from local merchants.

Details of Circus Work.

The circus travels on its own trains and only requires engines and crews from the railroads. The show also carries its own blacksmiths, horse-shoers, wagon and harness makers, tent makers, rope spicers and a

HOLD THREE YOUTHS ON LARCENY CHARGE

Three Janesville Young Men Charged With Robbing William Davis of $3.50.

Jack Cronin, Walter Dulin and Thomas Courtney were arraigned in the municipal court before Judge Maxfield on a state warrant charging the three young men with "taking by force and assault money to the amount of $3.50 from the person of William Davis." They were arrested yesterday by the police following a complaint by Davis the preceding day. The court the three asked for an examination on the charge when the court will decide if there is cause for trial. Judge Maxfield set Wednesday, September ninth, as the date of the hearing. Cronin and Courtney were obliged to furnish bail—Cronin to the amount of five hundred dollars and Courtney two hundred and fifty dollars, while Walter Dulin was released in the custody of Deputy Sheriff W. E. Dulin.

AMUSEMENTS

AT MYERS THEATER.

"The Spoilers."

Those who have witnessed tense dramatic action for the first time in motion picture in the picturization of Beach's celebrated novel have become exponents of the photodramatic art and leave the theater satisfied knowing and appreciating their book heroes better. From the indication offered by the many hundreds of amusement-hungry persons who poured into the Orpheum during the several performances, "The Spoilers" will enjoy a still greater popularity on this, its last week in Milwaukee.

"The Spoilers" will be shown at Myers Theatre for three days, Sept. 6-7-8, opening Sunday, Sept. 6. Matinee daily.

AT THE APOLLO.

"Tess of the Storm Country."

In "Tess of the Storm Country," which will appear in Janesville on Monday next, Mary Pickford portrays a tale of a woman's unconquerable faith. As "Tess" she renders a portrayal of inexhaustible fascination. The plot of the story is familiar to many. The plot is laid in the shores of Cayuga Lake, where Tess lives in a rude hut with her father. That region obtained the name of Storm Country from the sudden and regular squalls on the lake.

"Joan of Arc."

"Joan of Arc," the Maid of Orleans, will appear in Janesville in film at the Apollo next Sunday in a gigantic production of five parts. No expense was spared by the producers to make this a magnificent spectacle. The efforts of this historical maid to rid France of her oppressors has been staged and presented with a notable cast. This big feature will be offered on Sunday in addition to the regular three acts of high class vaudeville, at the usual price.

BREAKNECK SPEED FINISH IN NATIONAL

Boston Toppling Giants From Long-standing Lead in National for Chance for Series Swag.

(By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, Sept. 3.—With the season but a little more than a month to run Connie Mack's wonderful ball club—the Athletics—seem to have the American league pennant lashed to their mast. Only the greatest kind of a miracle could prevent the nearest rivals that the fans around the circuit have lost interest. They are spending their time now figuring what will oppose Mack's bunch in the big series this fall.

George Stallings' Braves of Boston seem to be an almost unanimous choice for the honor of meeting the Athletics. The wonderful work of the Beantown club since July 1 has impressed all the critics around both major loops and many are doing their best to beat the Athletics if it falls to them to defend the national league in the big series.

In view of this it might not be amiss to scan the personal of this Boston gang and see just exactly who's who. Of course, the main cog in the Boston machine is Johnny Evers former Cub and rated as the premier second sacker in the game. Stallings gives Evers credit for the great playing his club has been putting up. He declares that Evers has directed the work on the field like a Napoleon and that his courage has inspired every member of the team. Evers' running mate in guarding the keystone sack is Maranville, the smallest ball player in captivity. He is even more of a midget than Ownby Eush, the diminutive Tiger Star. With Evers coaching him along, Maranville's work this season has been a revelation. Possessing almost perfect mechanical ability, Maranville is fast developing into a brainy player as well as when he picks up a few more sheer points of the national pastime he will be the leading artist in the line. Evers waxes mightily enthusiastic over this youngster. "He's the greatest mechanical shortstop in the game right now," Evers said recently. "And it won't be long at the rate he is developing until he will be as brainy as any of them. You want to watch his smoke when he reaches the top."

Schmidt, erstwhile member of the Brooklyn club, is guarding the hard corner—third base—for the Braves. This position had worried Stallings all year until he landed Schmidt. It had been one of the weak points on the team. Smith, filled the hole. Although not a finished fielder he is more than making up for deficiency by the manner in which he is lurching the horsehide. His hitting has played an important part in many of the Braves' victories.

Stallings fooled the wise ones around the Tanager circuit by keeping Schmidt on first base. When the season opened and it was seen Stallings was going to depend on Schmidt to hold down first base, the critics began to pan the Boston manager. Schmidt wouldn't do, they said. Schmidt fooled the wise ones and proved the worth of Stallings' judgment. The big fellow has been playing a remarkably good fielding game. He was raw at the start of the season but he improved noticeably every day and it wasn't long until he took on a polish that stamped him as better than the ordinary. And he has been hitting at good clip right along, being one of the most consistent clubbers on the team.

Gowdy, an ex-Giant, is doing the bulk of the catching for the Braves. Whaling is his first assistant. With the loss of Bill Rariden, who jumped to the Reds, it was predicted that the Boston catching staff would be weak. On the contrary it has been proven strong all year. Gowdy has been driving in more than his share of the Braves runs. Boston's pitching staff is already pretty well known as the result of great work since July 1. The staff—that is the active staff—consists of Tyler a southpaw, and Rudolph and James, right handers. These three have done practically all of the flinging for the Beantown club. Stallings has juggled them along and despite the fact that they are all small men, as pitchers go, they have never shown signs of weakening under the strain. Besides the star trio, Stallings has several classy youngsters who look mighty good. Crutcher and Strand have both taken part in several games and look to have the makings of stars.

The outfield is a well balanced department. Devore, former Giant, Cather, former Card, Whitted, Connolly, are most frequently in the lineup. Stallings uses many changes in his outfield using left hand batters on the day right hand pitchers are working against his club and right hand hitters when southpaws are working. That his judgment has been good is shown by the standing of the Braves in the percentage column.

CARDINALS ON EDGE FOR FREEPORT GAME

Janesville Team Playing Brilliant Ball and Deserve Support of the Fans.

With six games to their credit in the last month and a half, the Janesville Cardinals will engage with the Freeport city team Sunday, who are expected to put up the stiffest opposition of the season against the winning Cards. Last Sunday there was a good delegation of fans in the mammoth grandstand, and on the sixth it is hoped that a thousand followers will be on hand to express the backing of the Cardinals in the city.

With the last two months' record the Janesville Cardinals have an undeniable right to claim the honors of southern Wisconsin, for they have not met with a reverse and have trounced the best that this section has to offer. With the team batting in great style and fielding magnificently, with the best pitcher around this "neck of the woods" in the box, the Cardinals will prove tough meat for even the state league teams.

Nehr, Sullivan and Berger are taking care of the outfield in grand style and batting over three hundred. Sullivan, as usual, is the chief run-getter on the nine, for "Deerfoot" Sullivan is not only stealing the cushions but getting around on long hits. Johnson last Sunday played in the outfield in Nehr's place and showed that he is a ball player of ability. Nehr is one of the most dangerous hitters on the nine, having broke up several games with a timely double or tripple. It is probable that Johnson will be forced to grace the bench because of Nehr's hitting power.

Porter is playing the first sack brilliantly and Butters at second is returning to last year's form both in hitting and fielding. Butters has been clouting the ball in the last two games at terrific rate, and opposing pitchers deliver a short prayer when he marches to bat. Lee, former Lake Shore leaguer, is holding down short, and "Shorty" is playing the position in true league style. Ryan at third, while not as dependable as the other infielders, is a brilliant player with a rifle whip.

Crandall has not met with a full game defeat this year and has been delivering a wonderful brand of hurling, and he needs no introduction to the fans. Hall is without a rival in southern Wisconsin as a catcher, for his whip this year is deadly. Further, Hall is sticking good, as was proven in the game against the strong Rockford Highlanders.

Sunday's battle is likely to be a pitching duel between Cazenham and Crandall, for both have undefeated records and plenty of "stuff" for the opposing batters.

GIANTS ARE OUSTED FROM TOP POSITION

The National league today has a new leader. The Boston Braves topped the New York giants from their commanding position by defeating the Philadelphia nine two games while the Brooklyn Dodgers stopped the Giants by pounding Marquard, 8 to 2.

This success of the Boston Braves, from a tail-end team eight weeks ago, with an even chance of beating New York for the pennant, was through the ambition of the players, gingered by Johnny Evers and lead by George Stallings. First place has been within the grasp of the Braves for the past two weeks and four teams, the Cubs, St. Louis Cards, Giants and the New leaders have been straining every fiber in first halting McGraw's nine, and then struggling for the high place. Johnny Evers, former Cub manager, and second baseman, with the guiding of Stallings, has formed a combination that has proved a winner.

Since the worm has turned for the legion of McGraw, the Boston men are confident that they will finish with a gallop for it appears that any team that will fight from the bottom to the top and every minute of the time—are not going to let up in the march forward. McGraw is in need of a dependable pitcher and the New York manager gives this as his reason for buying Marty O'Toole. Fans laugh at this move on the part of McGraw for O'Toole has proven decidedly a lemon with the Pirates, but McGraw has a faculty of making a pitcher out of men who have not been over-successful in starting. Rule Marquard was over a year in striking his stride after which he burned up the league. The general attitude of the Janesville fans is favoring the Boston Braves the majority of them declaring McGraw with his three champions has had plenty of chances to cop the world's title from the Athletics and it is high time some other nine had an opportunity of contesting with Connie Mack's nine.

The result of yesterday's game places Boston one game ahead of New York, four ahead of St. Louis and five ahead of the slipping Cubs.

A MODERN WATERLOO.

Never in the history of Robert M. La Follette's political career has such a decisive rebuke been administered by the voters of Wisconsin to his ideals as is shown by the results of Tuesday's primary. With McGovern, his arch enemy, against whom he fired all his broadsides, against whose candidacy he called into play all the tricks and wiles of the politician, not only did he lose, but he was defeated by a landslide.

But to go further down the list. Not only has he lost the senatorship, but also the governorship. Philip has been nominated. Reports differ as to his plurality but it is enough so that he has a majority over all candidates who are in the race. Over Dahl, La Follette's man of finance in former days, Over Hutton, who felt safe in the promise of the Boss for support, over Hull and Roethe. No wonder La Follette is too sick to make any comment. Yes, and even more news comes that the state office are in doubt and that all of the Philipp ticket has been nominated along with the leader.

But to go still deeper into the situation. The legislature is lost. The senate is safely conservative say the reports. The lower house is in doubt, but whether republican or democratic it is safe to say that the conservatives will have a majority, a good working majority. Like Rock, who has been chosen to stand for conservation, for reduction of state taxes, for the safe and sane administration of state affairs. The news is almost too good to be true. It is a veritable Waterloo. Next comes St. Helena two years from now.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PARIS.

When Lord Kitchener predicted the other day that the present war would last three years he did so with the full knowledge that Paris might fall within three months.

In the Franco-Prussian war the fall of the French capital meant the collapse of all resistance to Prussia—it was practically the end of the war. But an entirely different situation confronts the Germans today.

With France prostrate under the German heel, the Kaiser would still have to reckon with desperate foes. The British have not yet begun to fight. In Canada volunteers by thousands are preparing for active service on the continent. In Australia, South Africa and India big armies are forming, which within a few months will be hurled against England's Teuton foe. For every Briton who is killed in battle today, a half dozen others will take his place tomorrow.

Should the Kaiser be so fortunate as to humble both France and England, he would still have to deal with other foes quite as terrible. Grant that the Russians are not the best fighters. A million Slavs may lay down their lives in Prussia before the war has fairly begun. The czar could easily fill the gap with a million more. A second million could be slaughtered and a third million rise to fill the gap. By sheer weight of numbers it would seem that Russia could without difficulty overwhelm a Germany weakened by war with Great Britain and France.

Even should the Kaiser's terrible army overwhelm all its foes in Europe, there would still have to be reckoned with the fighting men of Japan. During these early stages of fighting Germany will hardly know she has a foe in the far east. But eventually the yellow men who slaughtered the Russian hosts on Manchurian plains, will have to be reckoned with.

The fall of Paris—if Paris does fall—will be only an incident in this terrible conflict. It cannot end the war.

WILSON TO STICK.

Warning has been issued to the Clark men, to the Underwood followers, to Bryan adherents, in fact to all spring democrats, that Woodrow Wilson, Watchful, Watling Woodrow, is to be the only Simon pure democratic candidate for president two years from now. Vice President Marshall has issued the ultimatum and it goes. How about it, Mr. Clark? What do you think of it, Senator Underwood? How about it, William Jennings Bryan? Are you all going to stand idly by and bow your head in obedience to the fate and smile and say Kismet?

WHITTET AND WINEGAR.

With such men as Whittet and Winegar candidates for the assembly from the two Rock county districts on the republican ticket, the voters can feel that their wishes will be looked upon as orders when it comes to enacting legislation next winter up in Madison. Both men stand for what the majority of the voters of the state are demonstrated they desire—safe and sane legislation along the line of overhauling the people, by the people and of the people. Congratulations to both, congratulations to the voters who supported them.

ARE VERY DOCLIE.

It is amusing to watch the editorial journals of the papers who have been the rampant supporters of the La Follette dogma and the La Follette candidates during the past few weeks. They are very doclie. In fact they are seeping up, wagging their sorry tails and ready to eat out of your hand. They excuse all defeats now on the ground of the sentiment against high taxes, which the God-given candidate, before the state of Wisconsin, as any more deeply burdened with debt and increased taxes that want to "omalgate an 'ideal.' Even their own pages are apologetic in mind and now that the voters have spoken they are ready to admit their mistake and beg forgiveness. It is bitter as gall to them but they are eating and how all right and liking it, too.

Returns are slowly coming in. Like war news they are uncertain, but enough reports have been received to show conclusively that Philipp has won and that in all probability his opponent will be Judge Karel of Milwaukee.

Even Karel managed to defeat Aylward. Think of that after all the boasts of the so-called Wilson demagogue. It must make Joe Davises demagogue Washington sick to read to the president the first results of his work as a practical politician.

Today is circus day. It is the day when the grown-ups refuse to remember they are grown up and if they have no children of their own, borrow some one else's so as to thoroughly enjoy the event—circus.

The Russians may be advancing on Berlin, the Germans on Paris, but the conservative voters of Wisconsin won a greater victory when it attacked and defeated the ultra progressive reform army at the polls Tuesday.

Straw hats must be worn yet, but some of the worn-in will appear again this year owing to the fact that their owners decided not to wear them longer upon persuasion of their intimate friends.

It promises to be Sheriff Chamberlain after January first, next. All hail to the new county officer who comes up from Beloit with the endorsement of his fellow citizens.

Now that the primaries are over the democratic postmasters can get down to work and abandon politics. With Aylward defeated they will have no one to work for.

Former Governor Davidson's support of McGovern showed that he had political foresight as well as political hindsight in the present campaign.

COMPILES PAMPHLET ON CARE OF BABIES

Wisconsin State Board of Health Issues Bulletin in Interests of Child Welfare.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 3.—The Wisconsin State Board of Health has compiled some "Don'ts" for baby culture. Never feed your baby candy, cake, sauerkraut, pork chops, old pickles or other solid foods.

Never use a feeding bottle with a small neck or long rubber tube.

Never drape the baby to make him sleep.

Never give teething powders; they contain opium.

Never wake the baby except for nursing.

Never permit people to kiss your baby's mouth.

The board has prepared a bulletin on "Save Your Baby." It says that 5,000 babies under one year of age die in Wisconsin every year, and that at least 2,500 of these can be saved by proper care.

Every day in the year an average of 142 babies are born in Wisconsin. Deaths under one year of age average fifteen per day. This gives a death rate for children under one year of age of 1000 for each 1,000 children born, while the average annual death rate for the entire population, including persons of all ages, does not exceed twelve per 1,000. These figures take no account of thousands of poor, malnourished, diseased children who succumb at an early age from conditions directly traceable to the first year of life. In 1912, 18.3 per cent of the one year olds were of children under one year of age. Deaths of children under one year constitute about one-fifth of the total recorded.

The board's new bulletin is profuse with carefully prepared advice to mothers on the care of infants. It is recommended that all children be vaccinated against smallpox before they are one year old. This is compulsory in most countries.

Vaccination against typhoid fever is also advised when that disease is epidemic.

Health officers will be supplied with the bulletin, and when births are reported the mothers will be given a copy.

TO HOLD CIVIL SERVICE TESTS FOR STENOGRAPHERS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 3.—Stenographers and typists for service in the next legislature will take civil service examinations at selected centers on Oct. 10. Other legislative employees will take tests in November. There are twenty-two legislative stenographic positions, open to men only, with salaries of $5 per day. Other stenographic positions will be filled from examinations held at the same time, the salaries ranging from $30 to $125 per month. One position of stenographer in the legislature requires a special knowledge of accounts. For legislative typists there are seven positions, salaries $4 per day.

In September or October, also, the civil service commission will hold examinations for assistant secretary of the board of public affairs, assistant attorney general, dairy and food inspector, including creamery inspector, and cheese factory inspector, and district clerk of courts.

November examinations will be held for general and statistical clerks and peb copyists, legislative employees except stenographer and typist, proofreader for service other than that in the legislature, and for service employee (state capital, university and normal schools), including positions of elevator man, janitor, and assistant janitor, night watchman and policeman.

OHIO PLANS BETTER CARE OF TUBERCULAR PATIENTS.

Columbus, O., Sept. 3.—Hospitalization of one consumptive prevents the infection of 10 other people. Hospital care and treatment provide practically the one chance of recovery for the patient.

These are the facts on which the Ohio Society for the prevention of tuberculosis and the division of tuberculosis of the state health board are basing their present campaign to procure adequate hospital facilities for consumptives. It is estimated that there are 35,000 residents of the state now suffering from the "great white plague."

State health officials have outlined 12 tentative hospital districts of from four to six counties each, wherein campaigns will be started for the erection of district tuberculosis hospitals to be located jointly by the co-operating counties.

Sixty-five of Ohio's 88 counties have made no provision for the hospital care of their tuberculosis victims. It is these counties that the campaign is to be waged. This movement is able now for the first time in the history of the state through the enactment of the amended county district tuberculosis hospital law by the last legislature.

Sport Snap Shots

Rough stuff on the diamond doesn't pay. If managers think that the fans gather round in the hope of seeing a fight they would do well to forget the idea. Detroit owners were said to notice that their attendance fell off appreciably after the fact that there some time ago in the series with Washington. And the Washington team has come into some disfavor with fans because of their habits of stalling and flailing. Last year they were always a good crowd around the circuit, but this season they have not been going as well and Griffith should give their behavior a little thought.

Branch Rickey, the St. Louis manager is a wise old owl. Last fall he was criticized on several occasions for not grabbing Brown, a pitcher with Montgomery, when he had the chance. Rickey had the first pick in the market, but when he was asked to grab Brown he let him go and Brooklyn grabbed him and paid $7,000 for him at that. Recently Brooklyn turned Brown over to Newark after discovering that he was scarcely worth a all of the seven thousand. Rickey it would seem, has the hunch that when it saved him a little change. He can now afford to laugh at those who previously derided him.

Fans, players and all in Washington are good and peevish with Umpire Jack Sheridan. He has always had more or less trouble with the Washington bunch and when he took a swing at Morgan not so long ago the Senators' fans reviled him bitterly. Lots of old stuff was hauled forth to show what a brute he was. It was found that at one time many years ago he hit Danny Green and Washington papers have panned him for this. It seems that an umpire should be consulted if he has only hit two players in all fifteen years.

The St. Louis Browns feel that they have a star utility infielder developing in a youngster named Hemphill, who is at present farmed to Nashville. He is at present making a great hit with Nashville fans and one and all declare that he will star in the big leagues next season. Third base is his regular job.

Willie Mitchell, the Nap pitcher, has been performing in a very pleasing way of late. He has been holding more or less of his opposing team to five and six hits per game and occasional runs, but two or three. With such a team as the Naps behind him, Mitchell should get a nosey for his recent records.

LATE RETURNS SHOW KAREL IN THE LEAD; KEARNEY HAS CHANCE

Milwaukee Man Leads Aylward by Six to Twelve Thousand—Hunting-Kearney Race Close.

Milwaukee, Sept. 3.—Judge John C. Karel is leading John A. Aylward by between six to twelve thousand votes in the contest for the democratic nomination for governor, according to late returns received here this morning. Today's election figures also show that the race between Hunting and Kearney for United States senator is close and still remains undecided.

The election returns continued to come in yesterday the chief feature that stood out conspicuously was the rebuke of Senator La Follette in his attempt to dictate nominations and vent his personal pettiness.

In the La Follette race, he made every effort possible to defeat Governor McGovern for the nomination for United States senator, and using his magazine from week to week as a vehicle of personal abuse. Governor McGovern was nominated for United States senator in spite of all the state by a vote which was nearly if not quite equal to all the opposing candidates for governor.

His legislative candidates beaten. Then also in the wreckage will be found legislative candidates who have long blindly followed the senator's beck and nod—Senator Martin of Darlington, Senator Linley of Superior, Senator Tansdale of Sparta, the man of vice commission fame, and others, who the final paragraph is made up of.

From Washington the report came that Senator La Follette was too sick to comment on the election results.

The senator revived his old attacks on Phillips, some of which were absolutely untrue—and Phillips has swept the state by a vote which was nearly if not quite equal to all the opposing candidates for governor.

Edgerton, Sept. 3.—Two fires occurred here this afternoon, the first alarm being rung in shortly before one o'clock, from the race track, where a shed with twelve stalls was completely destroyed, the loss being $1,500.

The second alarm came just an hour later, and came from the heart of the city, where two huge barns belonging to Frank Kellogg and A. J. Peters were totally destroyed, the loss being estimated at about $3,000, partly covered by insurance.

portant since the strictly missionary lands have become less numerous.

Cardinal Gasparri has been held in high regard for his learning. He is the most eminent of the church officials, having lately completed the codification of the canon law of the church, an orderly arrangement of the entire body of laws. If elected, it is said he would be another Leo XIII.

Cardinal Machi, Archbishop of Palermo, was once a newspaper man. He is a noted astronomer and has written many volumes on the subject. He is a native of the Cortesella and is in his 55th year. Pius X. frequently invited him to Rome to remain in an official capacity, but the people of Pisa begged him to stay with them and he heeded their plea.

Cardinal Ferrata, secretary of the Congregation of the Holy Office is in high favor among the logicians. It has been said he would be the nearest possible duplication of the late Pontiff.

Edgerton, Sept. 3.—Miss Mary Conroy, who has been visiting relatives in Milton Junction since Saturday, returned home yesterday.

The Street Car Conductor Says: I can always tell when they are married and I don't believe they ever fooled me yet. When they are not married he takes her gently by the arm and holds her onto the platform as though she were a million dollars' worth of delicate china. Then he finds her seat and puts his arm with his coat. When they are married she is lucky if she gets on at all.

I believe half of the people in this world are savin' up plugged nickels to have the street car conductor and the other half are saving plugged dimes.

People have an idea that the street car conductor is a cross between an encyclopedia, a Webster's unabridged dictionary and a city directory. A woman asked me today to get her out in front of some place where she could see a second-hand parrot and get some because I couldn't do it. Wouldn't that freeze you?

Boobs We Have Met. The man who tried to climb on a street car ahead of a woman. It can't be done.

The man who borrows the neighbors' newspaper and then criticizes its editorial policy.

The man who sits down on a sheet of sticky fly paper and then tries to pull it off. Burn 'em up right away. That's the system.

The man who expects to get a good square meal at a summer resort.

Father, Dear Father. Father, dear father, come home with me now.

The clock in the steeple strikes six; The children are lonesome with nobody there.

And we've got the supper to fix. The kitchen fire's out and the cat's in the milk.

Our domicile's sure a sight. The beds are not made and the hired girl's quit.

Oh, father, come home early to night. Come home! Come home! Oh, father, dear father come home, For mother's away.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Evidently Angeline Will Have No Cinch—

Fine Feathers

Novelized from Eugene Walter's Drama by the same name.

By WEBSTER DENISON

"All right. Rave all you want to, Brand. It can't do any harm now. I told you last week there were two ways to get out of it all: One was money and the other was to make a clean breast of it. One can't have all he wants all the time. You had your chance ten days ago and you threw it away. I gave you my terms and you took advantage of my helplessness and ignored them. You stayed away and paid that paltry $10,000 at the bank. You thought you would frighten my wife; that your magnanimity in releasing us from immediate peril would impress her and that in the end she would welcome the release you offered. Well, you succeeded with her but not with me. For her sake I was almost inclined to let matters drop, but this terrible affair has changed it all. We have taken human life, and a lot of it, and some one has got to pay, so if anyone is going to take the Lusatia, you're the man who had better hurry and pack his grip."

Brand stepped quickly to Reynolds, a tower of indignant rage. Trapped or cornered he was always Brand; always ready to put his back to the wall and fight—in the open if he couldn't fight from ambush. Bearded and almost beaten now, he quivered in his wrath and shook a threatening fist straight in Reynolds' face.

"You're a big, blasted baby and an imbecile!" he cried. "You play the quitter now and I'll make you regret it to the last day of your life. I'll fight and I'll win as I always have. You can't keep a man with money in jail. Those three words can't be grouped in the same language! But what's the use of talking," he added disgustedly. "You can't lay down now if you want to. You haven't got the nerve to send that girl there to the penitentiary for six or eight or ten years, to come out a broken woman—not enough of her left to suggest who she was. Do you know what prison does to men, Reynolds? Breaks 'em—body, mind and soul! Well, what will it do to a woman, then? To your wife? For if we go she goes with us. I've told you that and I mean it, so I guess my bluff's about as strong as yours."

He turned partly to Dick and, as if to clutch his throat, added: "And I'm not sure but that our virtuous friend here will be keeping us company. That's law and you know it."

"Bob," cried his wife, creeping to his side and cuddling against him as if she saw in Brand some hybrid monster whom she really feared. "I'll go. Anything you say, dear! I'm not afraid—not afraid!" Weeping softly, in obvious contradiction to her courageous stand, she nestled closer to his side.

"You've got to think of your wife, Reynolds," Brand urged, "even if you don't of yourself. The thing's done—you can't undo it. Besides, we believed the dam was strong enough. Only the most extraordinary conditions brought about its collapse. That lets us out. If we act sensibly we'll come good and clear."

But hope of immunity such as could be bought with Brand's power was not Reynolds' goal and the millionaire's expatiations on the possibility of it served only to irritate him the more.

"Money and lawyers and pull won't square murder, Brand," he said contemptuously, "and that's just what we committed. We have killed men, women and children for a few dirty dollars to which we had no right and some one has got to pay."

"My God!" the millionaire exclaimed impatiently. "You'd preach your life and liberty away—and that of your wife, too—for the sake of hugging yourself tall. Men—women—and—children—a handful of Dagobes and Polacks that the world's better off without. A few brats who couldn't fill a useful position if they did live to be men and women. How do you know it wasn't an act of God? He brought the water there, I didn't. But that's enough. I want to know what you're going to do? If you're going to talk I want to be ready for you. Now come on. Do you go or do you 'nny how?" Reynolds surveyed him coolly. "I'll let you know, Brand, just what I'm going to do. Before you leave here tonight you'll have no doubt about your course, but now I want a word with my wife—alone. If you don't mind, you and Dick step up to my den and I'll let you know when I'm ready. It'll be only a minute or two."

When they had gone he led her to the divan.

"Just a second, dear," he said tenderly. "I'll be right back and then we'll talk it over for the final solution."

As he passed into the adjoining room the telephone rang and Jane went to it apprehensive of the worst. It was a news association inquiring for Reynolds.

"He's—not in," she faltered. "No, I don't know just when he will be. Going away? No, I think not. You will have to see him yourself. In the morning? Yes, that will be a good time. Not tonight. That's all I can say. Good-by."

She hung up the receiver with a little gasp of relief. It had not been as bad as she had expected. But it was only a matter of time. She knew that. Already the newspapers had connected him with the catastrophe and there would be no end to the interviewing and dreadful questioning.

Bob returned and sat beside her. He had heard a part of her talk over the phone and surmised the meaning of it, but he made no mention of it.

"Jane, dear," he said softly as he took her hand, "you have never been sorry you married me, have you?"

"Why, Bob," she replied startled, "what are you saying? You know I haven't and never could be."

"But, darling, I have made an awful mess of it—of our life, I mean, for no man could have asked for a better wife. I have always loved you more than anything in life. Perhaps—perhaps," he continued haltingly, "I have loved you too much—that is, too much for your own good. That is not impossible, you know Jane. Love is always first, but there are times when we must temper it with reason and resolve. You must understand me, sweetheart, for after this I want you to know and feel that everything I've done and everything I do is for you."

Some strange note of fatality in his low tones alarmed her. Her startled eyes searched his and she pressed closer to his side.

"Why, even when you had taken a stand with Brand and I felt so—so much on the outside," he went on, "I loved you as I never thought it was possible for a man to love a woman."

"I never felt that way, dear," she interrupted. "I mean, that I was standing with Brand. Bob, you know that, don't you?" she cried appealingly, and the tears of self-condemnation started from her eyes while she begged—almost demanded the extenuation that she knew was not rightfully hers.

"Yes, I know it," he answered gently. "And you see, sweetheart, I was right when I said I was to blame. Just me. No one else. I have been at fault since the first day back there in the bungalow when you and Mrs. Collins went to the matinee and you came home with the new hat. I told you it didn't matter about the butcher—that everything would come out all right. Since that day we have been piling up these things—these crimes, dearest—yes, crimes. I knew it all the time. And I knew it as well as I knew that I loved you, that sometime the day would come when we—when I—would have to settle. But I kept you in ignorance. I was afraid to spoil your happiness, afraid to tax your love, and I let things go on until now, out there in that valley, whole families—just as dear to each other as you and I—just as important in the world as you and I, are gone—wiped out. I promised to protect you and all I have done is to lead you blindly from every decent thought."

"No, no, Bob," she interrupted vehemently. "It was I who did the leading, not you. You simply followed me."

Dinner Stories

"And so," said the lawyer in cross-examining a witness for the other side, "you say this man was shot in his own house?"

"No, sir," replied the smart witness, "I said he was shot in the arm."

"Oh, you think you're smart, don't you?"

"No, sir, I'm Brown."

A certain business man is the father of a youth of a most liberal tendency. Last spring, when the father left for Europe, where he was to spend the entire summer, he promised the lad that, if he were to attain a certain mark in his studies, his reward would be a continental trip with his father.

The prospect of such a trip stimulated the lad to such a degree that he attained a mark even higher than that set him by his parent. He carried his father the one word, "Yes."

It would seem, however, that the father had forgotten his offer, for, after thinking over the message, he called back, "Yes, what?"

Then, in turn, the son was perplexed. Finally, after due reflection he called to his father: "Yes, sir."

There is no place like the British House of Commons for a "piece of dementation of metaphors." It will be a long time before we have a "mixture" equal to the outburst of an effusive orator who said: "The British lion, whether it is roaming the deserts of India or climbing the forests of Canada, will not draw in its horns of retire into its shell."

"I am told that your wife would rather cook than eat."

The other man glanced nervously over his shoulder.

"What she cooks, yes," he replied in a hoarse whisper.

USE GOOD ENGLISH

Poor English is a Luxury Which None But the Rich Can Afford, And Even They Have Little Use For It.

(This is Lesson IV in a series of short, simple lessons in English, by C. R. Rounds, Inspector of English, Wisconsin State Normal Schools.)

WE, YOU, THEY, ARE, WERE.

These words go together. They are all plural forms. You is a troublesome word, for it may mean one or more than one, though it always should be followed by a plural verb. This is particularly difficult when someone surprises you by saying: I was there. You may naturally reply: I was you! This is WRONG. You should say: Were you? You will need to be very careful with all these words, particularly with the past tense, were, in questions. Your ear may mislead you at first. Train it by repeating these forms until they sound right and natural to you:

"Were you all ready when we were?"

"We were there before you were."

"Were you?"

"Certainly, we were."

"You were a rascal not to let us know you were going. They were there ahead of us and they were teasing us all evening."

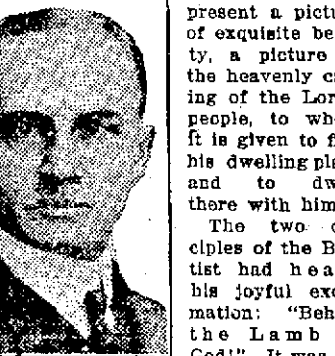

"Were they?"

Of course the plural verb should be used with plural nouns: Were the other boys there? Were the men hurt? Where were you all the time while the men were hunting?

The Master's Dwelling Place

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE
Bible Teacher, Extension Department
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—"Then Jesus turned, and saw them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? They said unto Him, Master, where dwellest thou? He saith unto them, Come and see. They came and saw where He dwelt, and abode with Him that day: for it was about the tenth hour." John 1:38-39.

These words present a picture of exquisite beauty, a picture of the heavenly calling of the Lord's people, to whom it is given to find his dwelling place and to dwell there with him.

The two disciples of the Baptist had heard his joyful exclamation: "Behold the Lamb of God!" It was the outpouring of a full heart that had found its all in Christ. The testimony of such a heart is never fruitless; for "the two disciples heard him speak and they followed Jesus." And that is the effect of all true testimony for Christ; it moves men to follow him!

The Master's Question.

When Jesus saw them following he turned with a question, one that was in itself quite natural but which has a deeper significance than appears on the surface—"What seek ye?" The import of the question lies in the tone and manner of the asking. On other lips than his, it might mean annoyance, suspicion, chagrin.

But we know perfectly well how such a question was asked by him whose whole life was an invitation to men to come to him, and in whose every message can be seen the outstretched arms of the Savior; and, though it forms a question, it was in reality a loving invitation, that at once drew out the hearts of the two following disciples.

But what does it mean to those who are not following him? What rebuke is in it? And the Lord presses that question upon every man, "What seek ye?" What is the aim of your life? What is its purpose? Have you put first things first? Until Christ gets his place before your heart nothing else can be right. Oh, happy heart! if you can say—"Master, where dwellest thou? It is thou alone whom I seek, and above all things else I desire thee!"

"Master, where dwellest thou?" They had seen what Christ was to another heart and they longed to discover him thus for themselves. And those words sank into a heart more than responsive to such a desire. How eager he is for us to come to him! "God is faithful, by whom ye were called into the fellowship of his Son, Jesus Christ, our Lord." He longs ever to have his own with himself, and we see in the next place—

"Come and see." It is the only answer. There are some things that cannot be told, and the secrets about the Master's dwelling place are among those unspeakable things. If you would know them you must "come and see" for yourself. The only man who was ever caught up to heaven and came back again, said: "I beheld unspeakable things which it is impossible for man to utter." And of these unspeakable, unutterable things, the Master's dwelling place is the present anticipation.

This "Come and see" to following disciples is a call to them to learn of Christ first-hand. Many know nothing of him except through others. They hear what human, faulty witnesses say about him, but they do not learn from him. O, soul, "Come and see" for yourself where he dwells and let him speak to you of "the things concerning himself" with his own blessed lips of truth! Do not wait for others.

No man has ever found his dwelling place and turned infidel. Scoffers and scorners have never been there with him. The rationalist, with his hostile criticism of Christ, has never come to see. No man can find the place where he dwells and abide with him there, without being filled with a deep sense of the reality of the "unspeakable things" and with the overflowing joy of the Lord.

The Response and the Blessing.

"They came and saw where he dwelt." But where? No name is given; no place of earth is mentioned. Why this reserve? He was far from Nazareth where he had made his home, and we cannot forget the words that turned back a would-be follower, "The Son of Man hath not where to lay his head."

But he has a dwelling place! The eighteenth verse of the chapter tells us about it: "The only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father." It is to that place of holy intimacy and companionship with himself to which he invites and welcomes all his own. The Father's bosom, the Son's abode, is the place of blessing for all who will "Come and see."

O soul, if you would know these things that cannot be told, "Come and see" for yourself.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1908 I was attacked by Rheumatism and inflammatory Rheumatism, suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried every remedy, but none gave me any relief. I was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case. I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long desired remedy, I do not want your money back, you are perfectly satisfied to send it. I don't think I can say any more. I want every sufferer to know that I am offering you free. Don't delay. Write today.

THE GOOD JUDGE LEARNS FROM THE HIRED MAN

ALL around you men are talking about "Right-Cut." You yourself are probably telling your friends it's the Real Tobacco Chew. No "Right-Cut" user wants to see his friends go without it. Made of pure, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough. You get all the good of the rich, sappy tobacco.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

MAYOR ORDERS FLAG DISPLAY FOR WEEK

MAYOR JAMES A. FATHERS ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR "FLAG WEEK."

ISSUES PROCLAMATION

Hundredth Birthday of National Anthem on Sunday, Sept. 6th.—G. A. R. Commander Speaks At Detroit.

September 6th, 1914, will mark the 100th anniversary of the birth of the "Star Spangled Banner," the song that has never failed to thrill with pride the heart of every loyal American. Therefore it is fitting that we should commemorate the event by the wholesale display of the "Stars and Stripes" floating to the breeze over every public building and business institution in the city to the end that we may all sing—"Tis the Star Spangled Banner—O' long may she wave, O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Beginning the 6th, Sunday, every residence place store, business and public building should exhibit flags in response to Mayor James A. Fathers' proclamation and the plea for the celebration of the hundredth birthday of the "Star Spangled Banner"—the national anthem.

For one week the event will be celebrated at Baltimore with appropriate ceremonies and throughout the country flags will be raised in honor of the event. The "Star Spangled Banner" is the national anthem of the United States, prescribed by military and naval regulations to be played on occasions of ceremony. It was written by Francis Scott Key while a witness from a British ship of the bombardment of Fort Mifflin near Baltimore in 1814. The words were sung to a British air, "Anacreon in Heaven," and at once acquired wide popular favor as a patriotic hymn. Naval and military regulations prescribe stand at attention with uncovered heads when this hymn is played.

Washington, Gardner, commander-in-chief delivered today at the National Encampment of the G. A. R. at Detroit, a speech in which the importance for the "flag week" is emphasized.

Patriotic Plea.—Sept. 2.—A plea for the perpetuation of "The Star Spangled Banner" as the American anthem, without alloy, was made recently by Washington Gardner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in his address before the 48th national encampment of that organization here today.

He urged the old soldiers to join in a movement to pay special honor to this song, and to discontinue the practice of playing it in melody with such "flippant and comparatively meaningless ditties" as "Yankee Doodle" and "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home." He said there was something inspiring in an audience and standing uncovered at the majestic strains of the national anthem, but it was "incongruous, bordering even on the ludicrous" for the band to strike up some other national air in melody with this, and to observe the audience resume sitting in "an irregular, half-ashamed manner."

he said.

A recommendation that permanent headquarters for the G. A. R. be established in Washington was another point of his address. Chicago and Philadelphia had been proposed, but he preferred the national capital, and thought that if possible the necessary space should be secured in a government building where the officers could keep closely in touch with matters before congress which affected the Grand Army.

Permanent Quarters.—A standing committee of seven persons, with the commander-in-chief and adjutant general of the G. A. R., as ex-officio members, he also recommended principally for the purpose of taking charge of all legislation which had the endorsement of the order, to keep closely in touch with matters before congress which affected the Grand Army.

"As it is now," he continued, "the committees having to do with proposed legislation number, in the aggregate, nearly ten times several and are widely separated. It is difficult to have a general meeting, save at large expense to the order, or to the individuals. Under the present arrangement, responsibility is too widely diffused and members too rarely brought together for consultation and concert of action."

He urged that no change be made in the method of management of the soldiers' homes which are scattered throughout the United States. Concerning the matter, he said:

"Not a solitary complaint has come to the knowledge of the commander-in-chief from any member of any home during this administrative year. It is known that an effort is being made to place these homes now under the care and supervision of our comrades, subject to the approval of the war department, into the custody of men who never saw military service in actual war and whose sympathies are not so likely to be directed toward our comrades in their declining years. This seems to be a case where the old rule, 'Let well enough alone' will apply. This encampment, in my judgment, should say to congress that the Grand Army of the Republic is decided against the proposed change."

The present membership, in good standing, was reported as 171,335. During the year the roll was curtailed by the death of 11,187 old soldiers, but notwithstanding this large figure, it is 161 less than died during the preceding year.

BALANCE OF POWER HAS BEEN A MENACE TO POLISH GROWTH

Nations to Establish Equilibrium Rent Poland Asunder In Monstrous Territorial Steals.

The Poland of 1715 was larger than any other European country, with the exception of Russia. Today it has no political entity, says the Vitebsk Geographic society at Washington. Two centuries ago its domain reached from the Baltic to the Carpathians, and stretched from east to west for a distance of approximately 600 miles.

"The first partition of Poland came in 1772, when Prussia and Austria, alarmed by the progress of Russia in Poland, suggested, as a means of maintaining the equilibrium of Europe, that all three powers readjust their territories at the expense of Poland," read the Society's bulletin. "Poland lay utterly helpless, and about one-fifth of her population and one-fourth of her territory. The second partition, in 1793, reduced Poland to one-third of her original dimensions with a population of about 3,600,000. A third treaty of partition was signed in 1795. The Congress of Vienna in 1815 divided Poland between Prussia, Austria and Russia, with the exception of Cracow, which was erected into a republic embedded in Galicia. Posen and Gnesen, with a population of 510,000, were left to Prussia. Austria remained in possession of Galicia with its 1,500,000 inhabitants. Lithuania and the Ruthenian Palatinates continued to be incorporated with Russia. The remnant was constituted as the so-called Congress Kingdom, under the Emperor of Russia as the king of Poland.

In the same year, Tsar Alexander I granted the new kingdom a constitution, which declared it to be united to Russia, in the person of the tsar, as a separate political entity. Poland retained its flag and a national army. In 1830, following the outbreak of the French revolution, a military revolt took place in Warsaw. This war lasted for ten months, and at its conclusion the Congress Kingdom was reduced to the position of a Russian province. The last remaining remnant of Poland's separate political existence was Cracow, and it was finally occupied by Austria in 1846. The last attempt of the Poles to achieve independence was in 1863. It was marked by one real battle and the uprising was soon repressed. The national history of Poland closes with this attempt at freedom. In 1868, by the Emperor of Russia, the government was absolutely incorporated with that of Russia, and the use of the Polish language in public places and for public purposes was prohibited.

"Russia Poland contains the first line of defense of the Russian empire on its western frontier. The marshy lowland, covered with forests on the western bank of the Vistula, offer a natural defense against an army advancing from the west, and they are strengthened by a number of fortresses on that river. The center of these latter is Warsaw.

"The Poles are rather of medium stature and well built. Those in the south are dark and in the north are inclined to be fair. While well endowed by nature they are today not remarkable in that energy which characterizes the northern races of Europe, and in a sense of unity which has been the strength of their present rulers, and the reason is obvious. For several years past the German element has been annually increasing both in number and in influence in Russian Poland. From remote antiquity Poland has been a center for the production and export of grain. Since 1875 there has been a remarkable development of manufacturing enterprise. The railroads of Russian Poland have an aggregate length of 13,000 miles.

The entire administration of the province is under the governor-general residing at Warsaw. After the insurrection of 1863 all towns with less than 2000 inhabitants were deprived of their municipal rights. The elective municipal councils were practically abolished, and Russian officers nominated in their place. The prevalent religion is Roman Catholic."

USE WAR EXCITEMENT TO COVER MISTAKES

Washington, Correspondent Claims Wilson Administration Seeks to Divert Attention. (By Winfield Jones.)

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—The democratic party, and that party's leaders in congress are making a tremendous effort to distract the attention of the country, in view of the approaching November congressional elections from the mistakes and blunders of the Wilson administration and the democratic congress.

They are doing this by the future caused by the European war. They hope that the war will draw attention away from their own misgovernment.

Let no voter be fooled by this scheme in November. The country was bad enough off as the result of the Wilson tariff and other policies before the war began. The war has only added to the economic distress, financial, and agricultural, started by Professor Wilson and followers in the democratic congress.

The interest in the tariff is going to be dulled by the European war. On the contrary, the tariff must now loom up bigger and more important than ever before. The administration's tariff policy has added to the economic distress, financial, and agricultural, started by Professor Wilson and followers in the democratic congress.

The millions of losers in this dreadful situation of unemployment, of diminished production, of falling trade, of vanished hopes, of misery and distress are not going to forget their wrongs and grievances because of the European war. Nothing less than the entanglement of our own country in actual war could sweep from the general mind the present resentment against the democratic party.

For many reasons the tariff in 1914 is more acute and vital as an issue than ever before. Not only have the economic injuries inflicted by Mr. Wilson been entered upon the record, but the country has, for the first time in its history, been practically reminded of the absolute necessity of a bigger and broader protection policy, as a means of arriving at a position of industrial independence.

The cost of the war in Europe is estimated at $40,000,000 a day. If it should last a year the cost would not be much more than four years of the democratic rule will cost the people of the United States.

There are 1,000,000 men out of employment in the iron trade alone, and they get hungry in spite of the psychological condition in Pennsylvania there are 15,000 coke ovens closed. There are 230,000 idle freight cars.

The foreign trade statement for the last fiscal year shows an increase of $81,160,946, so that the import gain in the last quarter of the year more than accounted for the gain for the full year. The year's exports decreased $38,774,000, which was more than the decrease in the last quarter of the year, but the figures indicate that the period has probably been entered upon in which it can no longer be said by administration apologists that the workings of the Underwood tariff have yet to be determined.

The import increase during the year was not much less than the gain of 5 per cent in imports which entered the country during the last quarter of the year in the comparative changes of the last quarter of the year a swing of $159,874,302 in the trade balance adverse to the country and gold to the amount of $4,500,000 was exported during the year.

There is certainly a singular coincidence between the effectiveness of tariff revision and the phenomena of the country's foreign and domestic trade. Since the advent of the Wilson administration, despite all the adroitness of Secretary Redfield, the shelling foreign trade figures to show the beneficence of the revised tariff, will hardly inspire enthusiasm for the workings of the administration's tariff experiment. It is more than cordially to be here a hint of most penetrating pointedness for congress to refuse to take the bidding of the executive and subject the business of the country at this time to further legislative experiments every more crude than the drastic downward revision of the tariff schedules to which the country's commerce and industry had been so long adjusted.

HIGH PRAISE FOR AMERICAN WOR KIN TURKEY

For thirty-five years Sir William Ramsay, L.D.S., etc., has traveled up and down Asia Minor in the interests of the Archaeological and historical work for which he is famous. He made a flying trip from Constantinople to London this summer, to accept of the Diamond Jubilee of the Bible Lands Mission Aid Society, where he was the principal speaker. His subject was the social and economic aspects of missions and he devoted a large section of his address to the work of the American Board's missions in Turkey.

Among other things he said, as reported in the English Churchman and St. James' Chronicle, that what he had seen of American missions—"which were homes and havens of rest to the traveler in many wild parts of the country"—had converted him into an enthusiastic admirer of missionaries and mission work. "They are creating an educated middle class in the east. Such a class is the real strength of a country and, precisely what is wanted in Asiatic lands. It can only be produced on a religious basis."

Constantinople is the center of the American Board's missions. There, in Stamboul, is the Bible House, the heart and the administrative brain of the common work of missions throughout Asia Minor. Every missionary reports by letter and if necessary, by telegram, to the Bible House, and there all the reports and news are coordinated and evaluated. If they want to know anything about the real nature of political and social life they go not to the embassy but to the Bible House. The American missionaries have done more to make for the regeneration of that great series of countries which composed the Ottoman Empire, and which are now breaking up, into their constituent parts than all the ambassadors of Europe.
